WHAT IS SAID IN THE DEPARTMENTS OF THE Ticket.-There is but one expression among the members of the Cabinet to-day over the Chicago convention. They all agree that Gar-field is a very strong man, and express no doubt of his election. The feeling is generally one of satisfaction. The clerks have not got over their surprise and disappointment that their favor-ited were defeated; therefore, there is not that general enthusiasm that mostly follows a re-publican nomination. The Grant men espe-cially are rather lukewarm as to Garfield. There was not one, however, who did not pre-BOX FACTORY. — CIGAR AND PAPER BOXES. Jas. Abraham Garfield, the republican candidate for President, is not yet forty-nine years of age. He was born at Orange, Cuyahoga county, Ohio, on the 19th of November, 1831. His parents were of old New England stock, and his father, who was one of the earliest settlers in Cuyahoga county, died in 1833, leaving a widow and four children very poorly prowided for. James was the youngest child. He struggled against poverty, and in spite of it acquired a thorough education. Up to his 17th year he worked at carpentering and canal boating, going to school at intervals when he could afford it. When in House adjournment resolution fixing the 16th instant, instead of the 10th, for final adjournment. The prevailing opinion is that the House at intervals when he could afford it. When in his 17th year he entered the Geauga seminary at Chester, and subsequently the Eelectic Institute at Hiram. He graduated at Williams' College with high honors, and then returned to the Hiram Institute as a tutor, from which position he soon rose to be its principal. He frequently preached in the pulpit of his denomination, the Christian (or Disciples) church. In 1861 Mr. Garfield was admitted to the bar, having been previously elected as a republican SENATOR BAYARD has again been called home having been previously elected as a republican to the Ohio state senate. Just as he was entering upon the career of lawyer and poli-tician, which he had marked out for himothers returned from Chicago this morning. They appear greatly fatigued with their exertions of the past week, but express themselves self, the war call was sounded and he promptly answered it. He entered the Union army as colonel of the 42d Ohio regiment, and THE OREGON ELECTION.—Neither of the Oregon was soon thereafter assigned to the command of a brigade. He distinguished himself as a brave officer in numerous battles, and was, in 1863, brevetted a major general for conspicuous bravery. He served on the court-martial which found Gen. Fitz John Porter guilty, and in the fell of 1863, he was elected to Congress. fall of 1863 he was elected to Congress-his commission as a member being sent to him while he was in the field. He has had a distinguished career in Congress, as he had in the army. He has for years been a leader of his party in the House, and is now universally regarded as the most brilliant and able member of the republican side of the House. He has served continuously in Congress since 1863, having held the position of chairman of the committees on military affairs, banking and currency and appropriations, respectively. His course as a leading republican has been marked with a liberality and broad statesmanship, which sometimes has brought him in contact with the prevailing sentiment of his party in the House. He boldly, during this session, proclaimed himself to the favor of amending the election laws so as to deprive them of their partisanship, and an amendment proposed by him was adopted by the democrats. Last winter Gen. Garfield was elected U.S. Senator to succeed Mr. Thurmon, whose term expires on the 4th of next March, and now, with senatorial honors hanging over him, he is made the national standard bearer of his party. Gen. Garfield has grown steadily in favor with the republican party and in public esteem, as well,—each year of his public service marking the increased confidence his political brethren feit in him, until now they have crowned him with the highest honor in their gift. He married

PHILADELPHIA OPINIONS. The Inquirer says: "This nomination is an augury of success." The Record says: "Mr. Garfield is a man of ability, and stands well in his party. He is not so able a man nor strong a candidate as Edmunds or Washburne would have been, but he is preferable to Grant or Blaine." The Ledger says: "His nomination is entirely fit to be made, and he will make a formidable candidate." The Press says: "The Chicago convention has done a good work. The nomination of James A. Garfield is not only a strong and wise one in itself, but is singularly and advantable to harmonize the various facwell calculated to harmonize the various factions and thoroughly unite the entire republican party." The North American says: "The nomination of General Garfield will nowhere create enthusiasm save in the circle of his personal friends, but it will everywhere command respect.

BALTIMORE OPINIONS. The Sun says: "The moral conveyed in Gen. Garfield's nomination, under the circumstances, is wholesome and reassuring. Like Mr. Hayes, Mr. Garfield got his nomination without a preliminary 'boom,' and, in addition, his nomination is the signal defeat of the third-termers."
The American says: "The nomination is a fitting one to mark the close of the radical and militant period of the republican party, and to signalize the period when, having upborne the government to the height of freedom and national power it had pledged itself to accomplish tional power it had pledged itself to accomplish, it settles down upon that new level to the regular and conservative work of managing the regular and ordinary business of a great nation." The Gazette says: "Like Mr. Hayes, he comes from Ohio, but unlike the present occupant of the White House he cannot hope to take his seat through fraud and violence, and there is very little probability of his securing it through any other medium."

Society Notes. General Sherman will go to West Point this evening to attend the examinations. His youngest daughter, Miss Rachel, has been there about ten days, visiting Gen. Schofield's family, and will remain some time longer. Mrs. Sherman and Miss Lizzie will go to St. Catherine's, Canada, next Friday, hoping the waters there will be of service to Mrs. Sherman's health. They will be absent a month and then will return here. While they are gone Mr. and Mrs. Thackara will keep house at Gen. Sherman's residence, but it is thought that Mr. Thackara will be ordered to sea in August. His bride will join him if he is ordered to China, or any station where she can be made comfortable.

A large party of young people and their chap-erones go from here to-day to attend the commencement at Annapolis and the annual ball. Secretary Thompson will take his own two daughters, Miss Virgie Niles, Miss Mollie West, Miss Wilson and Miss Guyon. General and Mrs. Hunter and their family will go about the close of this month to the Wentworth House, near Portsmouth, N. H., where they will spend a portion of the summer.— Mrs. Cowles, who has been with her husband, Lieut. Cowles, in China and Japan for about three years, has returned here, and is visiting her parents, Senator and Mrs. Thurman.—Gen. Haines' wife and daughter have left the city for the summer, as Miss Haines is far from well.—The marriage of Dr. Marmion and Miss McClellan, of I street, is fixed for the present month.—Mrs. Stewart is visiting her cousins, Admiral and Mrs. Powell.—Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy are enjoying a visit from their daughter, Mrs. Bidwell, of California.

KENTUCKY FOR TILDEN; ARKANSAS FOR SEY-MOUR .- Members of Congress from Kentucky have received different advices of the result of the primary elections in that state, but the most authentic reports go to show that Tilden will have the state convention by a good majority. Even some of the anti-Tilden members now concede this. Senator Walker, of Arkansas, says the delegation from that state to Cincinnati is solid for Seymour, and that "Seymour will be nominated."

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL. - In the House to-day Mr. Reagan, submitted the conference report on the river and harbor appropriation bill. As agreed to by the conference committee the bill appropriates $8,929,500, about $400,000 more than was appropriated by the bill as originally passed by the House. The conference report was agreed to ence report was agreed to.

36th BALLOT. THE TICKET COMPLETED.

Garfield and Arthur.

The extra STAR yesterday afternoon, issued directly after the telegraphic announcement was received here of the nomination of James A. Garfield for President by the national republican convention at Chicago, contained a record of the proceedings up to the time of said nomination. Our second edition gave graphic reports of the break for Garfield on the 36th ballot, the scenes which followed the nomination and subsequent proceedings down to the time of taking a recess.

The following graphic report of the closing scenes of the thirty-sixth ballot, ending in the nomination of James A. Garfield for President, and the excitement which followed, are from delayed special dispatches to THE STAR, from our correspondent at Chicago, which arrived too late for our second edition:

Special To The Star.

CHICAGO, June 8, 1880. A Scene Never to be Forgotten. West Virginia cast its nine votes for Garfield amid thunders of applause. Grant and Garfield were here nearly even, and the excitement was on the increase till it culminated in 18 votes from Wisconsin. Every man was on his feet but Garfield, and for ten minutes it was a scene never to be forgotten. All the banners of the delegations now got together around him and were waved over his head amid the din from ten thousand throats, without guns firing, loco-motives shrieking and pandemonium reigning generally. The bands struck up "Hail to the Chief." By this time the entire convention centered around Garfield, and as each salute was fired on the lake shore outside the roaring was taken up within. Garfield sat all this time im-movable but pale and dazed. This lasted fifteen minutes.

The Decisive Ballot. The next roll calls were the territories and the District of Columbia, who all voted for Garfield. The 36th ballot was then announced, and Garfield declared the choice (on his 399 votes) of the convention for President, the roll call first being verified by a revision.

Garfield began to show signs of excitement, his face was flushed, but otherwise he did not appear nervous, and continued to chat with Gov-Dennison. Conkling and Logan sat in their seats quite flushed, but otherwise quiet. As soon as the 36th ballot was officially announced another scene of excitement followed. Conkling arose at its end and moved to make the nomination unanimous. Logan seconded it.

Wyoming..... 2

The Convention Turned Into a Ratification Meeting.

The convention was at this point turned into a ratification meeting, and delegates from Virginia and Florida pledged the electoral votes of both states to the republican ticket. Mr. Norton, of Texas, pledged every republican vote in the south. Gov. Foster then read a dispatch from the oldest members of the House of Representatives, congratulating Garfield. It was warmly applauded. He also read a dispatch from Sherman, appealing to the Ohio delegation to vote for Garfield to insure his nomina-

Mr. Conkling had a bad cold and could hardly be heard, but ne was glad to see the good tem-per with which the nomination had been made. He hoped to see the zeal displayed here carrying the lance of the republican party into the ranks of the enemy. [Great and prolonged ap-Mr. Logan briefly said that in union there is strength, and he hoped that whatever strife there had been in this convention there would be peace now, and the party would go into the campaign with untied hands and with assurance of victory in November. [This was also greeted with applause.] Mr. Cameron was called for, but did not respond. The chairman of the delegation replied. however, saying one of their delegates had first nominated Garfield, and Pennsylvania would give him the largest vote given any presidential candidate in many years.

Mr. Hale, of Maine, pledged the Blaine forces to support Garfield to the end. A Notable Fact.

It is a notable fact that Caleb Taylor, of Pennsylvania, first named Garfield in the convention. He first named Taylor in 1852 and one other candidate since then, and in each instance he was nominated and elected. He always acted independently of his delegates and is an odd character.

Great Laughter. General Harrison, of Indiana, who threw the first big vote for Garfield, said he was called upon as the only defeated presidential candidate on the floor of the convention to second Garfield's nomination, and to thank the misguided delegate from Pennsylvania who had named him, but who unfortunately had no staying qualities. This was received with great laughter. Then a recess was taken until 5 p. m.

How the Nomination is Received. The nomination seems to be very welcomely received in Chicago. Under the circumstances it is believed, except by Halstead and some Ohio men, to be the best that could be made. The Grant men say that the action of the committee on credentials, on the Illinois cases, defeated them from the start. That vote continued to be einforced by the defection in New York and Pennsylvania, which just deprived Grant of a majority that was the turning point against

Start of the Garfield Boom. One thing which started the Garfield boom was the tremendous applause which he got from the gaileries every time he came into the convention and spoke. His knowledge of parliamentary rules made his speeches clear and concise and impressed the convention. Had not Washburn made a campaign he would undoubtedly have been the choice of the Grant men as a dark horse; hut they believed he betrayed

Chester Arthur for Vice President.
The Associated Press report of the final session last night is as follows: The convention began to reassemble at five o'clock yesterday afternoon. On the chairman's table stood a large floral effigy of a full-rigged ship, floating on a sea of colors, in which the name "Garfield" is worked in scarlet flowers. It was understood that the Conkling men and the New York delegation would propose Chester A. Arthur for Vice President. The minority, however, refused to concur, and talked of concentrating on Washburne. The convention was called to order at 5:30.

NAMED FOR VICE PRESIDENT. Mr. Gary, of Maryland, moved that the convention proceed to receive the nominations for candidate for Vice President. Adopted.
California being called, Mr. Pixley commended the nomination of Mr. Garfield as a strong one, and urged the importance of nominating an equally strong one for the second place. He named Elihu B. Washburne, of Illinois, whose career in Congress was most creditable, and to whose wise, humane and manly course in Paris during the commune the speaker was an eye-witness; a man whose conduct on that occasion should and would draw to the ticket on which he is placed the great mass of the German vote. While Mr. Pixley was speaking, Mr. Logan was seen talking to the Ohio delegation, apparently excited, remonstrating against their support of the Washburne movement. Mr. McCarty, of New York, seconded Washburne's nomination.

Mr. Robinson, of Connecticut, presented the name of Marshali Jewell, of that state.

Mr. Hicks, of Florida, after an earnest presentation of the sufferings of republicans in the south because they had the courage of their convictions, presented the name of Thomas Settle, of Florida, [applause.] whose nomination would help to break the solid south.

Mr. Harris, of North Carolina, colored, seconded Settle's nomination. Mr. Conger, of Michigan, in accordance with the unanimous vote of the Michigan state convention, said he would have been glad to present the name of Thomas W. Ferry, but he had a letter from the Senator absolutely declining the use of his name, and he asked to have it received and made part of the record. Agreed to. Mr. Houck, of Tennessee, in obedience to the republican convention of that state and to the common sentiment of the republicans of the south, put in nomination the name of Horace

Maynard, of Tennessee. Mr. Frye was called to the chair. Mr. Woodford, of New York, sa'd the great majority of the delegates from New York came here with the earnest desire and purpose to secure the nomination of Gen. Grant. In this they had been disappointed, but would give the ticket a hearty support. On behalf of many of the New York delegates he presented the name of Chester A. Arthur, of New York. Mr. Dennison, of Ohio, seconded Mr. Arthur's nomination. He embraced the occasion briefly, in the name of the Ohio delegation, to thank the convention for their action in nominating Gen. Garfield. The chair read a telegram from Oregon to Delegate Scott announcing that the republicans carried that state by 1,000 majority yesterday, and that Garfield's nomination excited great en-

Mr. Kilpatrick, of New Jersey, seconded Arthur's nomination, as well calculated to secure the vote of New York for the ticket. Mr. Storrs, of Illinois, on behalf of a majority of the Illinois delegation, supported Arthur's nomination, which would be gratifying to the old guard, which, during 36 ballots here, had never wavered in support of the "silent old soldier." [Applause.]

Mr. Lynch, colored, of Mississippi, said for the southern Grant republicans that they willingly and heartily concurred in New York's choice, and hoped it would be ratified by this conven-

A Maryland delegate also seconded Arthur's nomination, and said his delegation would sustain it with a solid vote. He regretted that he could not yet promise that Maryland would give a majority for the ticket in November next, but the nomination already made and the one proposed would give Maryland republicans a possible opportunity to battle for a political revolution in that state. [Applause.] Mr. Filley, of Missouri, announced that his state would give thirty votes to Arthur. Mr. Chambers, of Texas, presented the name of ex Gov. Davis, of that state, and got a little excited by the interruptions of those who called "Time" and "Question."
Florida withdrew the name of Settle in favor

Mr. Cessna, of Pennsylvania, said his delega tion were within two votes of a unit for Arthur. Mr. White, of Kentucky, said his delegation was united for Arthur.

Mr. McCarthy, of New York, withdrew his second to Washburne's nomination, and moved it be made by acclamation. The chair ruled that the roll must be called on this ballot, and that Mr. McCarthy's motion was out of order. Texas withdrew Mr. Davis' name. Mr. Hoar resumed the chair, and stated that

The roll was called on the ballot. New York cast 69 votes for Arthur and 1 for Washburne. The ballot resulted: Washburne 193, Jewell 44, Settle 1, Maynard 30. Arthur 468, Davis 2, Woodford 1. Bruce (Miss.) 8, Alcorn (Miss.) 1.

The chair said he would select the committee to-night. At 7:30 the chair thanked the convention for its patience and forbearance in sustaining him in the discharge of his duty, and the convention adjourned sine die. CELEBRATING.

The District Republicans. ARRANGING FOR A RATIFICATION MEETING AND A SERENADE TO THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES.

Messrs. W. B. Reed, Matthew Trimble and James McNabb, of the republican central com-mittee here; Messrs. W. H. Browne, H. W. Brelsford, Paul Hirsh and J. O. P. Burnside, of the National Veteran club; Col. Chase, of the New York Republican association, and others, met at republican headquarters in this city this morning. Mr. W. B. Reed was called to the chair. The object of the meeting was to make arrangements for receiving General Garfield upon his arrival in the city. Mr. Reed announced that it had not been ascertained exactly when General Garneld would arrive. He would stop over in Ohio two or three days, but would probably get here Saturday. Mr. Trimbie was chosen secretary. Mr. Reed proposed a ratification meeting at the city hall, to be followed by a serenade. Mr. Hirsh, from the veteran club committee. tendered an invitation to the committee to join with the club in a serenade. Mr. Trimble said it was not the intention of the veteran club to go into any extensive arrangements. He moved that the central committee heartily join with the veteran ciub in their proposed serenade. Mr. Trimble also moved that a committee be appointed to work with the veteran club in getting up the serenade. The following committee was chosen:—A. Gleason, Aaron Russel Matthew Trimble and W. B. Reed. This com mittee and the veterans committee were in-structed to consult and agree upon the exact character of the demonstration to be made. The meeting adjourned.

Immediately afterwards there was a joint meeting of the two committees. It was decided that the republican committee join with the Veteran club in the serenade, and that the veterans join the committee in a ratification meetirg to be held at the City Hall. This meeting, it was announced, would be held in about ten days. It was thought best by some to confine the serenade to the candidates. This was not settled, but left to the future. The two committees will go to more to complete arrange. mittees will go to work to complete arrange-ments for the serenade and ratification meetings and to raise funds.

Garfield replied as follows; -Mr. Chair-man and Gentlemen.-I assure you that the information you have officially given me brings the sense of very grave responsibility, and especially so in view of the fact that I was a member of your body, a fact that could not have existed with propriety, had I had the slightest expecta-tion that my name would be connected with the nomination for the office. I have felt with you great solicitude concerning the situation of our party during the struggle; but, believing that you are correct in assuring me that substantial unity had been reached in the conclusion, it gives me a gratification far greater than any personal pleasure your announcement can bring. I accept the trust committed to my hancs. As to the work of our party, and as to the character of the campaign to be entered upon, I will take an early occasion to reply more fully than I can properly do to-night.

Senators Harris, Saulsbury and Beck advocated the amendment, chiefly because the District Commissioners recommended it. Senator Teller intimated that it was an effort of the democrats to discriminate against the ex-soldiers of the union. It was too early after the war for that, he said. Mr. Beck said it might as well be claimed that no-body but an ex-soldier should be elected Senator from Colorado or be school teachers in New England. He said the democrats gave to the ex-soldiers of the union pensions and positions. and it was but right that the Commissioners

Congratulating Gen. Garfield. DISPATCHES FROM PRESIDENT HAYES, MR. BLAINE. SECRETARY SHERMAN, AND OTHERS.

Gen. Garfield was serenaded at the Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago last evening by an immense and enthusiastic throng, but declined to respond to the ovation further than bow his thanks. During the evening his headquarters here, approving the nomination of Gartield. Was the scene of busy congratulations. Over 600 telegrams were received from every point in the Union, including the following: "Executive Mansion, Washington, June 8 .- To

Gen. James A. Garfield: You will receive no heartier congratulation to-day than mine. This both for your own and your country's sake. Dispatches to like effect were received from

The following dispatch was received, last night, by General Garfield: The undersigned, to whom was confided the organization of the anti-third-term committee of one hundred, appointed at St. Louis, May 6th, rejoice that the duty assigned them disappeared with your nom-ination, which they heartly approve. Warmest congratulations to the statesman this day called to lead a reunited party to the front of its high-est aims. (Signed), H. Hitchcock, E. Pretorius, G. A. Finkelnburg, L. Eaton, R. E. Rom-

Look to Cincinnati now. The general sentiment seems to be that the nomination of Arthur for Vice President has not added any strength to the republican ticket. A hint to other aspirants: The man who won at Chicago had no boom, and never owned a literary bureau. The New York Star of Sunday last contains a long and favorable biographical sketch of Henry B. Payne, of Ohio. As the Star is the organ of Tammany, this may mean something. The Hon. Thomas R. Cobb has been renominated for Congress by the democrats of the sec-ond district of Indiana. The democrats of Florida and Illinois hold their state conventions to-morrow. Bayard will probably carry the former and the friends of Morrison the latter. One of the most comical things about the Chicago convention was the way the Minnesota delegation stuck to Windom.

Editor Star:—North Pownal, Bennington county, Vermont, formerly known as Whipple's Corners, is situated in the southwestern corner of the state, and by the usually traveled road one passes, in an hour's ride, from New York, the passes in a hour's ride, from New York, through the corner of Vermont, by way of North Pewnal, into the state of Massachusetts.

In 1851, Chester A. Arthur, fresh from Union College, came to North Pownal, and for one summer taught the village school. About two years later, James A. Garfield, then a young student at Williams College, several miles distant, in order to obtain the necessary means to defray his expenses while pursuing his studies, came also to North Pownal, and established a writing school in the same room formerly oc-cupied by Mr. Arthur, and taught classes in penmanship during the long winter evenings. Thus from a common starting point in early life, after the lapse of more than a quarter of a century, after years of manly toil, these distinguished men are, by the action of the Chica-go convention, brought into a close relationship before the nation and before the civilized world June 9, 1880.
